Unanimous choice of judges

Gallaudet student wins acting award

Marsha Goeken, a Gallaudet sophomore from Scotland, SD, has been named the recipient of the Irene Ryan ("Granny" on "The Beverly Hillbillies") acting scholarship. She participated in and won the Region II (DC, Maryland, Delaware, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania) auditions conducted as part of the Regional American College Theatre Festival at Penn State University Jan. 23 - 27.

Goeken was one of 50 participants, 48 of whom were hearing, and was the unanimous choice of the judges for the award.

She will now go on to participate in the national auditions held during the American College Theatre Festival XII at the John F. Kennedy Center on April 22 - May 11. Goeken will be one of 12 performers (winners of other regional auditions) competing for the two $2,500 scholarships awarded on the national level.

The National Evening of Scenes at the Kennedy Center is viewed by outstanding directors, producers, casting agents and well-known players. Scholarship winners may choose their own course of study, not limited to theatre arts, and their own institution.

This is the first time, since the establishment of the scholarship in 1972, that a deaf performer has been selected to participate on the national level.

At the Penn State competition, Goeken presented scenes from "When," by Gallaudet's William Moses, and Arthur Kopit's "Wings." "When" is currently being performed by the Gallaudet College Touring Company of which Goeken is a member and is based on actual experiences of troupe members. In the scene from "When" that she presented at the festival, Goeken portrayed a six-year-old deaf girl learning to dance by watching her older sister. In "Wings" she played a 70-year-old woman suffering from aphasia, a language disorder, as a result of a stroke.

Goeken is a drama major here at Gallaudet and would someday like to go to professional theatre school.

The American College Theatre Festival XII is presented by the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts and the Alliance for Arts Education, produced by the University and College Theatre Association, a division of the American Theatre Association, and sponsored by the Amoco Oil Companies.

Marsha Goeken, winner of the Irene Ryan scholarship.

Professional Day scheduled

This semester's Professional Day, scheduled for next Tuesday, Feb. 19, will have as its theme "Communication Unlimited!" The day is being planned by individuals involved with Deaf Concerns, under the auspices of Committee S.

Keynote speaker will be Dr. Harlan L. Lane, professor of psychology at Northeastern University and author of The Wild Boy of Aveyron. The morning workshop will focus on communication situations that happen which needn't happen, and the afternoon workshop will focus on how attitudes affect communication. Participants will have an opportunity to come up with suggestions about what would be best for the Gallaudet community.

The tentative agenda is:

- 9 a.m. Introduction
Situations Impossible!
- 10:45 Coffee break
- 11:00 Morning workshop
- 12:45 Lunch and keynote speech
- 2:00 Afternoon workshop
- 3:15 Wrap-up

Watch campus information bulletins and the mail for more details and meeting places.

Copies of the November document on Concerns of Deaf Individuals, which was sent to a number of College administrators and committees, will be distributed in preparation for the event. This document expressed a number of concerns of deaf faculty and staff and gave recommendations for improving situations and solving problems that are of concern to deaf people on Kendall Green.

In response to this document, the Central Administration, on Dec. 21, approved the establishment of a six-person advisory committee composed of deaf individuals to represent the faculty and staff and provide input through the Special Assistant to the President, Mervin Garretson. With the assistance of this committee and another faculty or staff member who will work with Garretson, at least five mini-task forces, composed of both deaf and hearing Gallaudet personnel, will develop plans, strategies and recommendations for action in the following areas:

- The quality and coordination of interpreting services.
- Manual communication instructional programs, including orientation to deafness.
- Implications for research in deafness, communication and English development.
- On-campus employment issues, job descriptions, recruitment and hiring.
- Educational technology, architectural/communication barriers.

White House Conference on Families Ward 5 meeting held at Gallaudet

Gallaudet was the site of a DC Ward 5 meeting of the White House Conference on Families this past Saturday, Feb. 9. The meeting was an opportunity for citizens to give testimony and express their feelings about the pressures and concerns facing the contemporary family. Out of these concerns, policy changes will be developed at the local, state and national levels.

The White House Conference on Families was initiated by President Carter upon his election. A national advisory committee runs its national effort and has held hearings around the country in seven different cities.

Each of DC's eight wards will have met by the end of this week to discuss issues of concern to the contemporary family. At the Ward 1 meeting held last week, the big emotional issues which surfaced were homosexuality and abortion, as well as concerns about housing and family life, according to Carl Banks, staff director for the White House Conference.

The meetings are all being held in barrier-free environments, which is why

Gallaudet was chosen to host the Ward 5 meeting. Ward 5 is in the heart of the city and includes the Gallaudet area.

At the Saturday meeting, individuals were nominated as delegates to the national convention which, for the East coast, will be held in Baltimore on June 5-7. At the national convention each state will be required to identify 10 topics as current themes for that state. In addition, each state, including the District, will sponsor other activities.

The state conference will be held Feb. 29- March 1 at Howard University, at which time eight delegates, one from each Ward, will be selected for the national convention.

Don't miss it!

Linda Bove, of the National Theatre of the Deaf, will appear as a guest star on "Happy Days" Tuesday, Feb. 12 on ABC TV.

Barnes sponsors bills to benefit hearing impaired

U.S. Representative Michael D. Barnes (8th District, Maryland) has announced that he is co-sponsoring a bill in Congress to require all new telephone receivers to be compatible with hearing aids. This bill (H.R. 5022), if passed, would help a great many people who presently cannot use the telephone to do so.

In addition, Barnes is co-sponsoring H.R. 4205 to provide a tax credit for the purchase and installation of a teletypewriter for use by deaf individuals.

Library Bits & Pieces

Com Catalog update

by Anne Calby

The College Library will "close" its Card Catalog in February. "Closing" the Card Catalog means that no more cards will be added to it. Instead, all new cataloging information will only be in the COM Catalog. Any cards for titles in the COM Catalog will be pulled out of the Card Catalog and discarded. This means that when you are looking for materials in the Library, you should begin your search in the COM Catalog. If you don't find what you want in the COM Catalog, check the Card Catalog. New titles, much of the Deaf Collection and heavily used older items will also be found in the COM Catalog.

The Library staff was happy to learn that more departments on campus have bought microfiche readers to use with the COM Catalog. We appreciate your support and would like to hear any further reactions that you have to the catalog and the Accessions List.

For fiction lovers only!

In last week's "Serendipity" column, a discussion of fiction books in a series was started. This article will elaborate on four additional series of fiction.

Allen Drury wrote his Pulitzer Prize winning novel "Advise and Consent" in 1959. This work was followed by a succession of related books: "A Shade of Difference," "Capable of Honor," "Preserve and Protect," "Come Ninevah, Come Tyre" and "The Promise of Joy." These volumes are full of political action and intrigue. They can be read independently, but knowledge of previous books will add to the reader's enjoyment. The Library has all six volumes in this series.

The Swann family saga by R.F. Delderfield depicts the rich social history of 19th Century Britain. The many and varied characters offer adventure, unexpected windfalls and tragic misfortunes. The Library has the first two volumes, "God is an Englishman" and "There's was the Kingdom." The third and final volume, "Give us this Day" is on order and should be available soon.

Also set in 19th Century England is the Mallen Trilogy by Catherine Cookson. This series follows the saga of the family of Thomas Mallen. One member of the younger generation is Barbara Mallen, an almost totally deaf person. She is introduced in the second volume of the series, "The Mallen Girl," which is in the Library. The two other volumes, "The Mallen Streak" and "The Mallen Lot," are out of print but the Library is trying to secure copies.

The Dune Trilogy by Frank Herbert is an epic in science fiction literature. The volumes are centered on Dune, an exotic desert culture with interesting animal life, home of Paul Atreides, leader of the Galaxy. "Dune," "Dune Messiah" and "Children of Dune" are all available in the Library.

For information on these and other materials in the Library, stop by the Information Desk or call the Librarian on duty at x5585 (voice) or x5575 (TTY).

Barry Scher of Giant Food accepts a framed issue of "Vehicles" from Elaine Costello.

Giant contributes to new workbook

The first issue of a new series of workbooks, Visual Vocabulary Skills, supported by the Division of Public Services, has been made possible by a gift from Giant Foods.

In July, 1978, Giant made a generous contribution to Gallaudet which was used to support the first in this series of workbooks. The books contain black and white photographs of things in the environment for deaf students to identify. Giant's donation paid for 5,000 copies of the book, "Vehicles." There are presently six books available on the topics of "Recreation," "Tools and Appliances," "People," "Places," "Rooms" and "Vehicles." The completed series will have 10 or 12 books, including two books in color on the topics of "Foods" and "Nature." The books can be ordered from the Division of Public Services for $1 each.

Barry Scher, director of Public Affairs, who accepted a framed copy of "Vehicles" for Giant Food, has a six-year-old deaf son, Steven. Steven is in a public school first grade class in Montgomery county and functions at grade level or above in all his subjects with the assistance of a cued speech interpreter. He and his family began learning cued speech when he was three years old.

KDES/MSSD need Big Brothers

KDES and MSSD are jointly developing a Big Brothers program for fatherless boys at both schools. Al Couthen, KDES After School Program coordinator and Ira Diamant, MSSD resident advisor, are the caseworkers for the Big Brothers program at their respective schools.

Survey results showed that 55% of KDES and 15% of MSSD boys are fatherless and do not have a father-like figure on a full-time basis in their lives.

The program is recruiting adults over 18 years old who are interested in working with fatherless boys (little brothers).

The role of Big Brothers is to give guidance, friendship and companionship to little brothers on a one-to-one basis, acting as role models of mature, responsible men who are also good friends.

Anyone interested in participating in the Big Brothers program can contact Al Couthen, x5252 (voice or TTY), at KDES or Ira Diamant, 5893, at MSSD. They will share more information with interested adults and conduct interviews with prospective Big Brothers before making a match with a little brother.

What you think

The results of the On the Green survey in the Jan. 14 issue are in, and if the persons responding are typical of the campus community as a whole, you want to keep us around.

Our thanks to the 25 of you who returned the survey. Of this number, all but one person (who commented, "I really liked the old format better. It's becoming just another newspaper now.") said they read OTG regularly and would like to see it continue in its present format.

More than anything else, those who returned the survey said they liked to read about people on campus. A number echoed the feelings of one person who wrote, "I am finally putting names and faces together thanks to OTG.... It helps me feel connected to the rest of the campus." Many people said they enjoyed all of the articles in the paper, but those who were selective cited Serendipity, Historical Notes, Message from the President, Among Ourselves, Advocacy, features on people and new programs and the Calendar as things they most enjoyed reading.

We received a number of suggestions for improving OTG:

- include more personal information about people, e.g. births, marriages, etc.
- include more photos and art work.

- use less filler and more current news about upcoming events.
- include more information about developments and research activities involving Gallaudet.
- print on colored paper.

People also criticize the paper for too often seeming to be an official organ of the administration and having too many typographical errors.

We hope to incorporate some of these suggestions in future issues, using more photos and featuring as many people on campus as possible so we can get to know each other better. You can help by sending us information about people and events planned by your office.

Some things we can't change. Due to time deadlines, OTG is typed and printed off campus, and we are not able to correct typographical errors and mistakes made by the printer. While we would like to do so it is also too costly at this time to print on colored paper.

If you have other comments, criticisms or suggestions, we'd still like to hear from you. It looks as if OTG will be around for a while, and with your support and suggestions we can help it better meet your needs and become more representative of the wide range of activities happening on Kendall Green.

Weekly program highlight

The International Center on Deafness responded to a sole source RFP to train Peace Corps volunteers for a two-year assignment in the Philippines. The project, "Recruitment and Training of Peace Corps Volunteers—For Philippine Assignment in Field of Deafness," is proposed to run for seven months beginning March 1, 1980.

The project, to be directed by Eli Savanick, will involve approximately 20 professionals as consultants or trainers for the anticipated 15 volunteers. The pre-service technical orientation, to be conducted on Kendall Green, will run for eight weeks from June 30 through August 22. The project requires Gallaudet to provide the necessary personnel, materials, facilities, and support services to not only conduct the stateside training program, but also to accomplish activities associated with recruitment and selection. Also, the project involves three proposed trips to the Philippines by Kendall Green professionals to coordinate pre-training and post-training activities with Philippine Peace Corps administrators and personnel in deafness-related programs.

A thought...

(In recognition of Valentine's Day or every day.)

"Once the realization is accepted that, even between the closest human beings, infinite distances continue to exist, a wonderful living side by side can grow up, if they succeed in loving the distance between them which makes it possible for each to see the other whole and against a wide sky."

President's Office Notes

Dinner-lecture series

On Jan. 22, approximately 40 faculty and staff attended the monthly dinner/lecture. Dr. David Breneman, senior fellow at the Brookings spoke on "The Economy and Its Impact on Higher Education." In his presentation, Dr. Breneman discussed the impact of inflation on higher education. He spoke of an uncertain future for private institutions, saying that many may have to close their doors during the 1980's. He considers Gallaudet College, with its unique mission, to be "lucky," and said that it is unusual to see such growth on college campuses today.

Dr. Breneman also spoke of the effects changes in our population has and will have on higher education. Due to the lack of turnover among existing professionals, he said, the job market for PhD's will be poor until the 1990's. In addition, he commented upon the expansion of continuing education programs as a result of changing population characteristics.

Dr. Breneman is Senior Fellow in the Economic Studies Division of the Brookings Institution. He is currently involved in research on the purposes and financing of community colleges and will soon join the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching as vice president and director of Research.

From June, 1972 through January, 1975 he was staff director for the National Board on Graduate Education, writing extensively on issues confronting graduate schools and students. At Brookings, he has coedited a volume on the future of private colleges, Public Policy and Private Higher Education, and has written on federal education policy for the Brookings series, Setting National Priorities. He is also coauthor of the recent report sponsored by the American Council of Learned Societies, Scholarly Communication: The Report of the National Enquiry.

Dr. Breneman received his BA in Philosophy from the University of Colorado, his PhD in Economics from the University of California, Berkeley, and taught economics at Amherst College.

Facilities Master Plan

The Planning Office has been in the process of updating the existing Gallaudet College Facilities Master Plan. Preparation of such a document is a requirement of the Washington, DC Board of Zoning Adjustments which reviews and approves all major physical changes occurring in the District. Our revised Plan was submitted to BZA on Feb. 6, 1980. A hearing before that body to obtain approval will follow. Such approval is necessary before BZA will permit individual construction projects to proceed.

Gallaudet's previous Plan covers a period through 1985. A review of that document shows that our College has grown in ways and timeframe amazingly close to that predicted in the early 1970's. Because of such close adherence to the previous Plan, our current update, which covers the period 1980-1990, represents an extension of our historic mission and future goals as outlined in New Challenges, New Responses.

A tremendous amount of work has gone into the preparation of this Plan. Literally dozens of people in all Divisions have cooperated to pull together information on future programs, enrollments, faculty and staff, parking, landscape, utility and space requirements. We have and will continue to discuss the Plan with a variety of community organizations. The picture which has emerged is of a Gallaudet which will continue to grow and prosper. For example, enrollment growth of the following magnitude is expected:

	1980	1990
Undergraduate and preparatory (Full Time Enrollment)	1,215	1,600
Graduate (FTE)	275	600
Sign Language Programs (FTE)	150	150
Total College (FTE)	1,640	2,350
MSSD	370	500
KDES	155	300
Public Service Programs (Number of People Served)	15,580	18,845

Because of this growth as well as non-academic related program expansion, the number of faculty and staff is expected to grow by 48% in this period from 1,318 to 1,946 persons. Increased space beyond that which exists and will be provided through funding in hand will be required for this growth. The College proposes to provide this space by both renovating existing buildings and constructing new ones.

Over the next decade, facilities in our entire Historic District will be renovated—none will be razed. In addition, construction of several buildings will be necessary as will additional parking facilities. Improved signs, lighting and utility systems have been anticipated as has a series of landscape beautification projects.

Going through this planning process has been a difficult task. However, now, for the first time in several years, Gallaudet has a well-defined basis from which to communicate a sense of its future physical developments.

Carole Bateman, biology instructor, talks with student.

Among Ourselves

Chris and Kathleen Gruber have a new son, Jason Christopher, born Nov. 16, 1979. Jason made an early appearance, since he was due to be born Dec. 30. Gruber works as a carpenter at Gallaudet part time and is a junior at the College.

On Feb. 1, Bill Saunders, administrator for MSSD Clinical Support Services; Alda Anderson, instructor at KDES; Michael Ralph, graduate student; Reba Euline, Gallaudet junior, and LaVarne Hines, Equal Opportunity officer, attended the kickoff luncheon for National Black History Month sponsored by the Association for the Study of Afro-American Life and History at the Mayflower Hotel. Congressman Walter E. Fauntroy was the keynote speaker.

Michael Karchmer and Steve Wolk of the Office of Demographic Studies have been traveling to several cities in Texas and Louisiana the past few weeks to conduct workshops on the use of the Special Edition for Hearing Impaired Students of the Stanford Achievement Test. Workshop sites included Fort Worth, Houston, McAllen, Baton Rouge, Shreveport and New Orleans. The workshops are held in conjunction with the statewide achievement testing of hearing impaired students in both Texas and Louisiana.

The D.C. Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers will have several workshops on March 28, including "Social Work Education in the 80's: Views of Local Program Directors." One of these directors will be Dorothy Polakoff of the Sociology and Social Work Department. Later a special workshop entitled, "Gallaudet College: Social Work Program and Students' Profile: Senior Students" will be presented, with panelists Frank Bystrycki, Karen Crosby Diane Duwal, Gerard Kennedy and Belitha Miles.

Peter Wisher, Department of Physical Education, authored a chapter entitled, "Dance for the Deaf" in a book edited by Claudine Sherrill, Creative Arts for the Severely Handicapped (Springfield, IL: Chas. C. Thomas, 1979)

Advocacy Notes

Black History month

by LaVarne Hines

In 1926, Dr. Carter G. Woodson, Harvard PhD, initiated Negro History Week. At first, the annual celebration during the second week of February was designed to include the birthdays of Abraham Lincoln (Feb. 12) and abolitionist Frederick Douglass. In 1975, the President of the United States proclaimed the month of February as National Black History Month.

This year's theme is "Heritage for America." It is during this period that we reopen the history books to commemorate the achievements and contributions that black Americans have made to the black race and to this country.

The history of black Americans can be traced back to the early days when blacks were transported to America as slaves. Even though they came empty-handed with chains and shackles bound to their bodies, and often were victims of the auction block, they transplanted an abundance of knowledge, culture, creativity and pride to this country. Blacks have made significant contributions in the areas of education, medicine, inventions, the arts and politics, to cite a few areas. As we reflect on the history of blacks, we will note that the progress and achievements were the result of long, hard struggles, determination and the dream to secure freedom and equal opportunities.

Here are some dates that are worth remembering as we celebrate Black History Month:

- 1619 - Twenty blacks were brought to Jamestown, VA on a Dutch ship as indentured servants.
- 1641 - Massachusetts was the first colony to recognize slavery as a legal institution.
- 1770 - Crispus Attucks was the first man killed in the Boston Massacre, a demonstration against British colonial policy.
- 1793 - Eli Whitney's cotton gin led to increased mass importation of slaves to work on cotton plantations. Congress passed the first Fugitive Slave Law making it a criminal offense to protect a fugitive slave.

- 1838 - Frederick Douglas escaped from slavery in Baltimore.
- 1843 - Sojourner Truth discovered an underground railroad and assisted other slaves in escaping to Canada and freedom.
- 1857 - The Dred Scott decision by the U.S. Supreme Court opened federal territories to slavery and denied citizenship to black Americans.
- 1863 - Abraham Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation.
- 1896 - The U.S. Supreme Court upheld the "separate but equal" doctrine (Plessy vs. Ferguson) when it ruled that laws segregating people because of their race did not violate the U.S. Constitution.
- 1867 - The first public school system for blacks opened in the District of Columbia.
- 1893 - Dr. Daniel Hale Williams performed the world's first successful heart operation in Chicago's Provident Hospital.
- 1895 - W.E.B. DuBois was the first black to obtain a doctorate at Harvard University.
- 1921 - This was the beginning of "Harlem Renaissance" of literary and cultural improvements of the 1920's.
- 1936 - Jessie Owens won four gold medals at the Berlin Olympics.
- 1950 - Gwendolyn Brooks was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for poetry. Dr. Ralph J. Bunche was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize.
- 1954 - The U.S. Supreme Court, in a unanimous landmark decision (Brown vs. Board of Education) ruled that racial segregation in public schools was unconstitutional because "separate educational facilities are inherently unequal."
- 1958 - Lorraine Hansberry's A Raisin in the Sun was the first play by a black woman produced on Broadway.
- 1963 - Martin Luther King, Jr. opened a campaign against segregation in Birmingham, AL. The march on Washington drew 250,000 demonstrators.
- 1965 - Malcolm X was assassinated in Harlem.
- 1967 - Thurgood Marshall became the first black appointed to the U.S. Supreme Court.
- 1976 - Dr. Mary Berry, the first black woman ever named chief administrator of a major American university, became chancellor of the University of Colorado.
- 1978 - The U.S. Supreme Court ruled in a decision that Allen Bakke, a white, had been discriminated against and ordered his admission to the California Medical School at Davis. In addition, the Court ruled (5-4) that race may be a factor taken into consideration in an admission selection process in order to ensure a diversified student body.

This month we salute all black Americans who were involved in the struggle for equality and whose contributions have promoted the betterment of all humankind. Your accomplishments are innumerable!
